Humanitarian Hunt Is On to Find Maladies

By FRANK CAREY AP Science Reporter

BOSTON (P) -A humanitarlan manhunt test is on-to try to find likely candidates for high blood pressure and coronary heart disease before such maladies develop,

Dr. Caroline Bedel Thomas of Johns Hopkins School of Medicine said today the idea of the search -- under way for a decade among students at her school-is this:

1. To find young people having a combination of certain physical and psychological characteristics which with a parental history of high blood pressure or coronary disease, 2. To take such a group of youths, divide it in half, and place half on a program designed to test various preventive measures -utilizing the other half as an untreated "control" group.

The objective, the woman scientist told the 38th annual meeting of the American College of Physicians would be ultimately to work out means of preventing these diseases in the general population.

she said that some of the indicate some degree of susceptibility to the disease are: higher-than-normal heart rates, overweight, athletic build, high blood cholesterol a cholesterol (a fatty substance), and high sensitivity to certain forms of stress.

"However," she told the doctors, "No one trait alone is thought to be significant. A constellation of these traits appearing in a normal person in the presence of a positive parental history mark a group in which the susceptibility to high blood pressure and coronary heart disease is thought to

In the course of the news cons ference, Eisenhower also talked

PERSONAL CRITICSM - Displaying some amusement, Eisenhower said that so far as he knows no personal criticism fired at him has had any adverse effect on his health. He made that remark after a reporter said the President has been crilicized recently with respect to White House acquisition of helicopters for his use, and for what the newsman termed speeding on the highways.

The newsman said there been reports the White House stand tries to protect Eisenhower from personal criticism on the ground such criticism is a menace to his health.

With a grin, Eisenhower replied it's a puzzle to him how such notions get abroad.

Summerfield Supported by a Few GOPs
